Kolping Christmas Party

submitted by Ann Horan

We had such a happy and successful party this year. Thanks to all of you who came. It really felt like family with all the generations joining together. The pictures will show how many families have made Kolping part of their lives.

Our meal was prepared by Doris Petsche and Heidi Umland. The room was decorated by Wolfgang Hahn. Our manager, Ernst Endrich, and his staff made sure everything ran smoothly, especially by adding another table to accommodate our overflowing crowd. Father Bretone was inspirational at Mass. We are very lucky to have him as our Praeses.

Although we had no new 50 year members, we welcomed 10 new 25 year members. The new members recited the Kolping pledge and shook hands over the Kolping flag so now they are all "official".

We awarded two members Person of the Year awards. They are Jennifer Ahrens Scheuermann and Katherine Weinborg. We are so proud of this young woman and thankful to them for all they do for Kolping.

The winners of the raffle for the Joe Sartorius Fund and The National Endowment Fund were:

1st Prize	Rita Berge	$150.
2nd Prize	Rita Berge	Radio City tickets
3rd Prize	Sabrina Dengler	DVD player
4th Prize	Tom Williams	Basket of Cheer

Thanks to Santa, Walter McDonald, for being so kind and welcoming to our 35 children. It was delightful to see so many of them perform for us.

Jack McGee played the piano for us at Mass, during dinner, and then led us in singing carols to end our day. Thanks Jack for keeping us all in the happy, musical mood for the day.

Note from the Editor: A big thanks to Ann Horan for being a terrific "MC" and for getting all the wonderful gifts that put big smiles on the children's faces!

MISSION STATEMENT: We, the members of the Catholic Kolping Society of America, extend the vision of our founder, Blessed Adolph Kolping, by promoting the development of the individual and family; we foster a sense of belonging and friendship through our program of spiritual, educational, charitable and social activities.

Kolping members Robert and Carol Dowgiallo in the news...

excerpted from THE JOURNAL NEWS

The Sacred Heart Chamber Orchestra premiered Robert and Carol Dowgiallo's "The Christmas Truce" at Sacred Heart Church in Yonkers on December 16. Christmas isn't just an opportunity for Carol and Robert Dowgiallo to decorate their home, it's a source of inspiration. In the past year the Lincoln Park couple wrote a Christmas poem and then had it set to music.

We received thank you notes from Msgr. Connaughton of St. Joseph's, Msgr. Hendricks of St. Christopher's, Fr. Kurzyna of St. Patrick's, and Fr. Bretone for our Kolping Christmas checks which we sent to each of them.

Detroit Convention 2006

For those of you who did not follow my advice two years ago to "Meet me in Detroit" you missed a WONDERFUL convention.

After spending a few hours at "The Henry Ford" (more about that later) we registered at the Marriott in Troy (which is about a hour north of Detroit) we followed the happy sounds to the Hospitality Suite where we met up with the rest of our Kolping Family from across the country. There were many faces we recognized from St. Louis (2004), New York (2002) and San Antonio (2000) along with many new ones. We were sorry to hear that two of the New York group was not able to leave the Big Apple because bad weather had canceled their flight.

We all made an early night because the next day after a 8 AM Prayer Service the delegates buckled down to work while the rest set off for the "The Henry Ford" for a day of fun. This museum has so much to see that you could spend several days there and not see everything. I was told that a few took a ride in a Model T while others took a train or buggy ride. Meanwhile back at the hotel the delegates got down to some work.

Of course one of the items on the agenda was the thrilling Financial Report – they are always so much "fun" but it is something that has to be done. A major portion of the meeting was devoted to the discussion of the Renaissance Fund which had been established to eventually buy a home for the National Office. There was a proposal to transfer the funds that had been contributed to the existing National Endowment Fund as the finances for operating the National Office are very tight. The feeling was that the likelihood of raising enough money to purchase a suitable facility was small so why continue the Fund. There was much discussion on the concept of the National Office and a home. A suggestion by Gerhard Schmitt to see if a Kolping Family could use the fund to renovate a space and provide for a National Office carried the vote to allow the Renaissance Fund to continue as is. The Fund would also use the income from its investments to support the operation of the National Office, if necessary.

Other reports were given on our Mexican Project and the close of the Coffee venture. Information on the growth of the Society was a little disappointing. The recruiting of new members is the top challenge for all the branches. As the "older" members either die or move to a different part of the country to retire, the membership list keeps getting smaller and smaller, for example, if we here in New York had just added one person to our list we would have come home with the Membership Trophy

In other parts of the world Kolping seems to be growing by leaps—in fact according to Msgr. Axel Werner, the International Praises, in India alone we added over 30,000 (yes you read it right). He also mentioned that the fastest growing Family was in Vietnam.

We also heard a report from our own John Reitter (Kolping's representative to the UN). I hope everyone had the opportunity to read it in the Banner. One side light was his mention of a home in Germany that was set up not only for "older" citizens but was combined with one for women in an abusive situation. It is now helping both groups.

During that first morning we all gave a sigh of relief when Daniel Dengler walked into the room. He was one of our New York delegates who were scheduled to come on the flight that was canceled. He was able to get the last seat on another plane. It was a good thing he did because he ended our session with a plea for us—that is all members—to come up with an updated Mission Statement. The current one must be altered for those of us in North America to meet the goals of Fr. Kolping. More than one delegate came up to express that he had the words they were trying to say.

The saddest part of the meeting was when we had to say farewell to the officers who have reached the end of their term. The one we will all miss, of course, is our own Bernie Preisser who reached the end of his term after doing a wonderful job (and of course I am just a little prejudiced because he's my cousin). The new officers were wished the best of luck and they all asked for our prayers and support which, of course, we will give.

That Saturday evening we were treated to a grand time at their "Detroit Kolping Park" that is about an hour from Troy. The busses were waiting to take us there and we were all happy that we had a good appetite. The FEAST included ham, roast beef, chicken and pork, three pasta salads, two types of potatoes, salad, fresh fruit (that was displayed like a work of art) and lots of other goodies. We also had a very nice desert table consisting of pies and cookies. They must have been up for days cooking and baking.

Even though the weather was not "so good" we warmed up on the dance floor with a band playing many German songs, in fact if I closed my eyes I thought I was back on 88th Street 40 years ago.

On Sunday a bus took us to the Solanus Casey Center where Auxiliary Bishop Quinn celebrated Mass after the presentation of the various flags. The Mass was celebrated in the older part of the Center in the St. Bonaventure Chapel. After a delightful box lunch, Father Daniel Fox, the Detroit praises, was our guide of the center (he was one of the leading factors to establish the center).

That evening we had the Awards Banquet at a hall that Detroit owns and rents out for weddings and other occasions. Again we were treated to a wonderful meal and great company. The Distinguished Service Awards for New York went to Gerhard Schmitt and Robert Jaki.

Monday morning, after a beautiful mass, we had to bid a sad farewell to not only our hosts but also to our brothers and sisters from around the country who are under the umbrella of Blessed Father Kolping.

Now I hope you will all meet us in Philadelphia in 2008 and in Cincinnati in 2010. There is no excuse that you did not have enough advance notice.

The World is Bathed in Grace

By Karen Byrnes

Dear Friends in Kolping:

Everywhere in the city, signs of the holiday season are evident, and have been for quite awhile. Once, Thanksgiving marked the official start of the Christmas season; now, Halloween transitions seamlessly into it. One response to the commercialism of Christmas is to rail against it; another is to recognize that, as believers, we mark time differently and see life through a different lens than most do. We see that grace fills our lives even in an imperfect world.

The late German Jesuit Father Karl Rahner wrote, "The world is bathed in grace." The Virgin Mary understood this. Grace touched her life from the first moment of her existence in the womb of her mother Anne. Grace was present when the angel announced that she was to be mother of the Messiah. Grace manifested itself, too, in the words and embrace of her cousin Elizabeth, who welcomed Mary and the child she carried. Grace sustained Mary throughout the years of her family's hidden life in Nazareth and the tumultuous years of her son's public ministry. And, like Mary, we are sustained by grace in every circumstance.

This Advent, many of the parishes in the Archdiocese of New York have what they call a "Giving Tree". There are usually paper ornaments on the tree that parishioners remove from the tree and buy a gift for someone less fortunate: for a housebound senior citizen, a person in a nursing home, a baby at Foundling Hospital, a toy for a child in a hospital or orphanage, warm socks, hats and gloves for the homeless, and toiletry items such as soap, disposable razors and shampoo for men in a rescue shelter.

The Kolping Society had a Christmas party this past weekend, where Santa gave gifts to children under 12 years of age. That continues to be a wonderful tradition. But, I can't help think "What would Father Kolping say if he was here today in 2006." I think he would ask: "What have we taught the children about giving to the less fortunate?" Perhaps the Kolping Society can plan a gift-giving campaign next year where our children and members would have the opportunity to give to the less fortunate. Shouldn't we explain to our children that all children are not as fortunate as they are, and give them the opportunity to give a toy to a less fortunate child? And what about the Kolping adults, shouldn't we adults be thankful for our many blessings, and give to someone who needs our help? I always feel great joy each year to give my gifts for the "Giving Tree". Many people buy themselves what they need during the year, and when it comes to Christmas, they really don't really need something. We are grateful to our relatives and friends for the gifts we receive, but most of us get a lot more joy in giving, than receiving.

As Father Karl Rahner said: "The world is bathed in grace". With our selfless giving, God will reward us with the grace we need to truly enjoy a

PRAYER FOR OUR SOLDIERS submitted by Jack McGee

*"Lord, hold our troops in your loving hands. Protect them as they protect us.
Bless them and their families for the selfless acts they perform for us in our time of need.
I ask this in the name of Jesus, our Lord and Saviour. Amen."*

Dear Members....do you have a member of the family presently serving in Iraq? We'd appreciate his/her name so that we may ask our Kolping members to pray for them. Perhaps if you'd like to include the address of said member, we can send a box of items and a short note from time to time. If you've ever been in the service overseas, you'll know the value of a note or a few items from home received in the mail.

Babe Ruth submitted by Martin A. Kelly

The December 10th issue of the Sunday News featured the results of their Sports Hall of Fame survey. Earlier this year, the News requested its readers to submit the names of 25 athletes who they thought should be inducted in their Hall of Fame. Surprisingly, the most popular player was a baseball star who died 58 years ago, and whose hey day (1914-1934) was long before almost all of the voters were born.

The most favored inductee was the late George Herman Ruth, the son of Catholic German-American immigrants. He was born in Baltimore, Maryland on February 6, 1895 into poverty. Fate would have him serving as a craftsman's apprentice in a Catholic trade school.

It was here that his proficiency as a player on the baseball diamond became apparent. The amazing grace with which he pitched shut-outs, fielded hard-hit balls, struck home runs, etc., endeared him to fans particularly with the New York Yankees, with whom he played the final 16 years of his brilliant career. Many of his records for hitting home runs stood on the books for almost 50 years before being broken; and some "old timers" will claim that the bats were thinner and the ball less lively then.

What makes "Babe" Ruth, as he was affectionately known, so revered by sports fans was his personality. He was a bit of a rascal in his younger years, but marriage to Claire Hodgson, a former Ziegfeld girl, put him on a more responsible life style. He had a great rapport with children and became their idol.

His career can be summed up with the nick names associated with him: "Sultan of Swat" for his prowess with the bat; "The House that Ruth Built" (Yankee Stadium) because his pulling power at the ticket office; and "Baby Ruth", a candy bar named in his honor.

Mr. Ruth died of throat cancer in 1946 and was laid to rest in Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Westchester County, New York.

JULIE ANDREWS' FAVORITE THINGS

submitted by Jack McGee

To commemorate her 69th birthday, actress/vocalist Julie Andrews made a special appearance at Manhattan's Radio City Music Hall. One of the musical numbers she performed was "My Favorite Things," from the legendary movie, "Sound of Music." Here are the lyrics she used:

Maalox and nose drops and needles for knitting,
Walkers and handrails and new dental fittings,
Bundles of magazines tied up in string,
These are a few of my favorite things.

Cadillacs and cataracts, hearing aids and glasses,
Polident and Fixodent and false teeth in glasses,
Pacemakers, golf carts and porches and swings,
These are a few of my favorite things.

When the pipes leak, when the bones creak,
when the knees go bad,
I simply remember my favorite things,
And then I don't feel so bad.

Hot teas and crumpets and corn pads for bunions,
No spicy hot food or food cooked with onions,
Bathrobes and heating pads and hot meals they bring,
These are a few of my favorite things.

Back pains, confused brains, and no fear of sinnin',
Thin bones and fractures and hair that is thinnin',
And we won't mention our short shrunken frames,
When we remember our favorite things.

When the joints ache, when the hips break,
when the eyes grow dim,
Then I remember the great life I've had,
And then I don't feel so bad.

Santa's Reply submitted by Martin A. Kelly

Around Christmas time, a young boy wrote a postcard to "Santa Claus, North Pole." In it, the boy asked Santa for $10.00 so he could buy his mother some presents.

The clerk in the post office who sorted the mail, noticed the addressee on the boy's card and turned it over to read it. Deeply moved by the sentiments of the writer, the postal clerk took a stamped envelope and put $5.00 of his own money in it and addressed it to the boy. A few days later, the same clerk came across another postcard, in the same handwriting, addressed to Santa. It read:

Dear Santa Claus,

Thank you for answering my letter; but next time, send a check. Some crook in the post office stole $5.00 out of it.

The religious congregation is known as the Order of Salesians of St. John Bosco.
