Please see page 8 (What's Happening in New York This Month) to read about the family that is in much need of our help.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT, BOB HEMSING:

The Catholic Kolping Society is a volunteer family organization. Every year it is very difficult to get members to volunteer at KOH; whether it be for the clean-up weekends or during our many events held during the summer. It always falls on the same members to step-up and volunteer.

We ask that you make a concerted effort to get involved with the Society and volunteer at several events during the year. Please check off the events on the schedule that you prefer to help out at. We will use this list to contact you via e-mail or phone to remind you when the event is coming up. Don't be afraid to check off an event because you don't know if you will be able to make it that day—this is non-binding! If you can't make that event, we will contact you for the next one.

Please complete the volunteering form found on the next page of this Bulletin and send it with your membership dues. Please update and complete your contact information, including email address. We send out frequent notices via email to keep you up-to-date with what is going on at Kolping.

OUR HOLY FATHER'S JANUARY 2012 INTENTIONS

Each month, the Holy Father gives us one general intention and an intention for world missions.

Victims of Natural Disasters. That the victims of natural disasters may receive the spiritual and material comfort they need to rebuild their lives.

Dedication to Peace. That the dedication of Christians to peace may bear witness to the name of Christ before all men and women of good will.

Kolping Christmas Party Submitted by Muriel Fullam

Photos submitted by John Noonan and Muriel Fullam

December 4th, the second Sunday in Advent was a wonderful day at Kolping House on 88th Street. First we had a beautiful Mass celebrated by Fr. Bretone. In his homily Father reminded us to be "patient" in all things in our everyday life and in waiting for Jesus to come again. God knows the right time to do everything—so no need for us to worry and be impatient. Thank you to Fr. Bretone and to Don Simons and his accordion for this nice start to the day.

Wolfgang Hahn outdid himself once again. The meal, loin of pork, mashed potatoes, vegetables, schnitzel, and sauerkraut was delicious. We are so lucky to have such a renowned chef cook for our party. Of course, Ernst Endrich and his staff, Ray, Ken, Giovanni, Chris, Roger, Miguel all helped to decorate and setup the tables. The room looked so festive. And when it was over—they cleaned up. Thank you so much guys. Thank you also to Heidi, Kelly, & Emily Weinborg as well as Alexa, Stephen & Jenna Richardson for serving the food. Wilma Endrich is our own Christmas angel. She remembers everything and writes notes to remind everyone. She ordered everything for the bake sale and helped with all the party details that everyone else would forget. Thank you too to Lou Colletti, Donna Richardson and Christina Lovasz for working at the bake sale table.

After our meal, we were treated to the sounds of "Beauty Parlor", an a cappella group consisting of 6 young women. They were wonderful, with beautiful voices. They got us all involved—even the children in singing the Twelve Days of Christmas. I hope we can get them again in 2012.

Our "Members of the Year" for 2011 were Nick & Lou Colletti. Nick and Lou help out at each and every Kolping event. They truly love Kolping and we are so pleased and happy to have them as members.

Next we celebrated our 50 and 25 year members. Bert Bruegger, Anita Buchholz, and Bob Hemsing were applauded and thanked for their 50 years of service to Kolping. Robert Hemsing Jr., Charlotte Rahm and Donna Richardson were thanked for their 25 years of service. Robert Doyle and the McGreevy's could not make it to the party but their names were mentioned and their certificates and pins will be mailed or given to them at a later time.

St. Nikolaus and the rest of us really thank Donna Richardson and her children, Stephen, Alexa and Jenna for doing all the shopping. Good old St. Nik would have been horribly embarrassed if there were no gifts to give out.

Speaking of St. Nik—our member of the year Nick Colletti did such a fabulous job. He looked and sounded like the real deal! Thanks Nick!! Most of the kids loved him—but there were a few like cute little Michael Cevello, age 1 (a Buchholz grandchild) that did not care for St. Nik. Maybe next year!

If I have forgotten to thank someone I am sorry—everyone did a wonderful job and the party was just about perfect.

Congratulation to the winners of the National raffle drawn at our party!
$1,500—Jerome Stegman from Cincinnati
$1,000—A. Preisser from New York
$ 500—Theodore & Mary Ann Welsch from Chicago

GEORGE NAUMAN SHUSTER: Author and College President

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

To German-Americans, the events of 1930's must have seemed disheartening. With the loyalty to Uncle Sam in the first place, they still had a natural interest in the affairs of the land of their forefathers. There, unemployment, rebel-rousing, near right wing takeovers, and military coups marked the political landscape.

At that time, a voice of tolerance and patriotism was needed, here; and it was found in George Nauman Shuster. He was born in Lancaster, Wisconsin in 1894, and he was educated in the Catholic school system being graduated from Notre Dame in 1915.

By 1917, World War I, between the Allies (Britain et al) and the Central Powers (Germany et al) had raged for 3 years; both sides were battle-weary and the possibility for negotiations seemed at hand.

America, however, intervened in April 1917 on the side of the Allies. Shuster foresaw that this move meant the military advantage to the Allies and Germany would become the victim of vengeful conquerors. Nevertheless, Shuster enlisted in the U.S. Army and served in military intelligence. While in Europe, he sharpened his appreciation for Western civilization and culture.

Returning home, he taught at various universities and edited a Catholic weekly "Commonweal" in which he pointed out that Catholic intellect and American intellect was not the same and the latter was lacking in spiritual areas. This was the era of the K.K.K. and lynching. He also denounced Nazism for its assaults on individual and religious freedom; and, supported boycotting the 1936 Olympics in Berlin because it would be used as a propaganda gimmick. Throughout this time, he wrote numerous books on sanity in a world going crazy.

After Pearl Harbor, he served on the Enemy Alien Board and on the conference establishing UNESCO and served as the U.S. representative for over 20 years. In 1950 he was appointed deputy for Bavaria under the High Commission for Germany and served 18 months. Later he was the director for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

As President of Hunter College in Manhattan, he reformed and expanded scope and function of what was a women's college during his 20 year tenure (1940-60). He, also, made salient recommendations in higher Catholic education. He died in 1977 in South Bend, Indiana, site of Notre Dame.

In our fragmented world with nuclear proliferation, we could use a couple more guys like Shuster.

WHY PRACTICE PENANCE (by Paul Thigpen, Ph.D.) submitted by Jack McGee

As Lent approaches, Catholics turn their attention once more to penitential practices: traditionally, prayer, fasting, and almsgiving. Protestant traditions, such as Anglicans, Lutherans, and Methodists, observe Lent as well. Pentecostals, for example, often practice prayer, fasting, and almsgiving year-round with an enthusiasm that would put many Catholics to shame. Prayer is obviously giving our ongoing conversation with God. Fasting is seen as a way to strengthen the power of prayer and to focus the one who is praying. Almsgiving is simply a reasonable response to the financial needs of various ministries.

These are of course commendable reasons for prayer, fasting, and almsgiving, and they give much common ground as a place for mutual understanding and shared action. But when people inquire about Catholic practices, any discussion of Lenten traditions, should include an exploration of the notion of penance as well. What exactly is it, and why are Catholics called to practice it—not only during Lent, but throughout the year?

THE MEANING OF PENANCE

In Catholic tradition, the word penance has several meanings, all closely related. The virtue we call penance is a good habit of attitude, thought, and behavior that inclines us to be sorry for our sin, to avoid sin in the future, to repair (as much as lies within our power) the consequences of our sin, and to turn wholly to God.

The Sacrament of Penance (or Reconciliation) is that channel of grace flowing from God through the Church by which—through the ministry of a priest acting on Christ's behalf—sins are forgiven for a person who confesses them with true sorrow and the intention to turn away from them.

With in that same sacrament, penance is the name commonly given the action or discipline assigned by the priest confessor as a way of showing our sorrow for sin and our intention to change, and of repairing in some way, the consequences of our sin.

More general, penance refers to all the particular, concrete ways in which we show our sorrow for sin; demonstrate our intention to avoid it in the future; repair its consequences; turn away from temptation; detach ourselves from the things that compete with God for our love; and turn ourselves more fully toward God. In short, penance might be defined as spiritual change that enables us sinners to turn away from sin and toward God.

That last, brief definition is one that our brothers and sisters would recognize and appreciate. In fact, they would most likely see it as a definition for a word they themselves use frequently: repentance. Again, we find common ground here. But some would probably have difficulties with certain aspects of the Catholic teaching about penance as we've described it.

Laying aside for the moment the common objections many Christians have to the Sacrament of Penance, we can identify other particulars here that would give them pause. Trying to turn away from sin and back toward God is one thing, but attempts to repair the consequences of our sin is quite another. The problem lies in the important differences between how Christians understand the consequences of sin.

2011 ADVENT PROJECT—JENNIFER ALLISON

submitted by Gerhard Schmitt

Roy Allison is Jennifer's husband, and Steve Allison is Roy's brother. I've known Steve and Roy for at least 25 years. We all used to pal around together in Queens during our "Hot Rodding" days. I met Jennifer about ten years ago when they still lived in East Meadow. I saw her last at their home in Rockland, and although she was already ill, she was still continuing her education in the hope she would recover and land a better job. As of this writing, Jennifer has taken a turn for the worse and is now receiving in-home hospice care. Roy is coping as best he can, but lost a lot of time at work as an elevator mechanic due to the constant trips to the hospital with his wife for treatment. They have two daughters, the oldest is living in Pittsburgh and the other is in her first year of college upstate, but has taken a semester off to help care for her mother. This is a tragedy on many levels, but for a hardworking tradesman and his family to suffer like this over the holidays is doubly bad. I hope my Kolping brothers and sisters can give a little something to help ease Roy's burden of medical and utility bills that have been piling up during the course of their struggle.

Steve Allison sent Gerhard the following information:

Jennifer was diagnosed with early stage breast cancer in summer 2004. She had a mastectomy and reconstruction August of that year, and started chemotherapy and hormonal therapy. She had 1 year of weekly herceptin infusions from 2005-2006. She worked for Occupations for a 3 month trial period, but could not continue due to health. She graduated from SUNY Orange July 2007. She was diagnosed with metastasis to bone and liver July 2007, and is now in stage 4. She received Radio Frequency Ablation to her liver in 8/07 and then in July 2008 she started chemotherapy again and switched to Cancer Treatment Centers of America. Her new chemo treatments required weekly flights to Philadelphia. She went into remission for 3 months. But the cancer returned, and she received many different chemotherapies over several years as well as surgery and procedures such as chemoembolization, Radio Frequency Ablation and Therasphere to her liver. In July 2011 she received Microwave ablation to her liver. She felt increasingly ill after ablation. The tests showed complications from the procedure as well as spreading of cancer. In September 2011, Jennifer started chemotherapy again, but could not continue due to liver damage. October and November 2011 required many trips to Westchester Medical Center Emergency Room due to complications with the stent in her liver and the drain. In December 2011 she entered hospice with no treatment options currently available. These many years of treatment have required Roy to take off many days from work. He has no paid sick days. Their youngest daughter is 19 and attending college. Insurance is capped at $5,000.00 lifetime maximum for hospice treatment.
