Stories of Interest

Ernestine Schumann-Heink submitted by Martin A. Kelly

The civilian funeral passed, with muffled drums, as the guard of honor made of American Legionnaires paid their last respects to the naturalized-citizen who had been their foster mother.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink was born on June 15, 1861, in Lieben, Austria-Hungary, the fourth child of an Austrian Army Officer. Moving from one army post to another, she got what education she could but her magnificent voice destined her for international acclaim.

Moving up from a soloist in church choirs, she made her operatic debut in Dresden, Germany at age 20. In 1882, she married Ernest Heink, secretary of the Semperoper, the Saxon State Opera Dresden, with whom she had four children; this violated the terms of their contracts, and both were abruptly terminated from their positions. Heink took a job at the local customs house and was soon transferred to Hamburg. Ernestine remained in Dresden to pursue her career, and eventually rejoined her husband when she secured a position at the Hamburg Opera. Ernest Heink was again thrown out of work when Saxons were banned from government positions, and departed to Saxony to find work. Ernestine, pregnant, did not follow him; they were divorced in 1893. That year she married actor Paul Schumann, with whom she had three more children. The second marriage lasted until Paul Schumann's death in 1904.

Ernestine was a survivor, and captivated audiences whenever this Wagnerian diva sang; in Hamburg, London, New York, etc. Her voice ranged from contralto to mezzo-soprano enchanting all who heard her.

In 1905, she became an American citizen and showed how true-blue she was when America became involved in World War I (1917). This was in spite of the fact that she had sons from earlier marriages serving the Kaiser: in addition to younger sons in the American forces.

She was her own U.S.O., singing and entertaining servicemen: moreover, even after hostilities ceased, she advocated for veterans' welfare into the 20's and 30's. Her melodious voice was not limited to the opera house: she sang on radio, cut records, and even made a movie. She died on November 17, 1936 in San Diego, California.

BENEDICT XVI WILL BEATIFY JOHN PAUL II

submitted by Jack McGee

On 1 May the second Sunday of Easter and Divine Mercy Sunday, Benedict XVI will preside at the rite of beatification for John Paul II in the Vatican.

According to a note released by the Congregation for the Causes of Saints, "on 14 January, Benedict XVI authorized to promulgate the decree of the miracle attributed to the intercession of Venerable Servant of God John Paul II (Karol Wojtyła). This concludes the process which precedes the rite of beatification.

"It is well known that, by pontifical dispensation, his cause began before the end of the five-year period which the current norms stipulate must pass following the death of a Servant of God. This provision was solicited by the great fame of sanctity which Pope John Paul II enjoyed during his life, in his death and after his death. In all other ways, the normal canonical dispositions concerning causes of beatification and canonization were observed in full.

"Between June 2005 and April 2007 the principal diocesan investigation was held in Rome, accompanied by secondary investigations in various other dioceses, on his life, virtues, fame of sanctity and miracles. The juridical validity of these canonical processes was recognized by the Congregation for the Causes of Saints with a decree of 4 May 2007. In June 2009, having examined the relative 'Positio', nine of the theological consultors expressed their positive judgement concerning the heroic nature of the virtues of the Servant of God. The following November, in keeping with the usual procedure, the 'Positio' was submitted for the judgement of the cardinals and bishops of the Congregation for the Causes of Saints, who gave their approval.

"On 19 December 2009, Benedict XVI authorized the promulgation of the decree on John Paul II's heroic virtues. "With a view to the beatification of the Venerable Servant of God, the postulator of the cause trusted the Congregation for the Causes of Saints to examine the recovery from Parkinson's disease of Sr. Marie Simon Pierre Normand, a religious of the Institut des Petites Soeurs des Maternites Catholiques".

"As is customary, the voluminous acts of the regularly-instituted canonical investigation, along with detailed reports from medical and legal experts, were submitted for scientific examination by the medical consultors. The experts of the congregation, having studied the depositions and the entire documentation with their customary scrupulousness, expressed their agreement concerning the scientifically inexplicable nature of the healing. On 14 December the theological consultors, having examined the conclusions reached by the medical experts, undertook a theological evaluation of the case and unanimously recognized the invocation made to Servant of God John Paul II, whose intercession was effective in this prodigious healing.

"Finally, on 11 January 2011 the ordinary session of the cardinals and bishops of the Congregation for the Causes of Saints took place. They expressed their unanimous approval, believing the recovery of Sr. Marie Simon Pierre to be miraculous, having been achieved by God in a scientifically inexplicable manner following the intercession of the Supreme Pontiff John Paul II, trustingly invoked, both by Sr. Simon herself and by many other faithful". ## Philadelphia Kolping News by Father Bert Michel, Praeses

One of the Kolping Families in Germany uses as their motto: KOLPING—LIVE RESPONSIBLY, ACT JOINTLY. This motto also fits our goals. If you read the by-laws of our Philadelphia Society, especially Article II: "Objects/goals", you are aware how we were formed exactly for such a reason, "live responsibly, act jointly". The by-laws tell us that we were formed as an organization that cultivates a vigorous religious and civic consciousness and life. By living in this responsible way, we hope to establish the ethical foundation for a new economic and social community, by which we jointly help our city, and indeed the whole world, share social, civic and educational goals as we work in the service of people as a whole and open for them a better access to the future.

Fr. Kolping founded the first Kolping Families so that young men, leaving their secure home environments in the countryside, might still live a responsible life in the quickly growing cities during the industrial development in the mid 19th century. Many of these young men, cut off from their family values, began living irresponsibly. Fr. Kolping gathered them in boarding houses where they were encouraged to live their faith in God, help one another jointly, and reach out to others around them.

That is still the goal, the "object", of Kolping Philadelphia and International Kolping. We encourage all our members to live their faith through daily prayer, Sunday church attendance, and mutual support through socializing, having joint activities that will help others or bring joy to others, and reaching out to needy even far away, through things like the Lenten Project.

What is Lent?

Lent is the penitential season of the Church's year. It ends with the Mass of the Lord's Supper on Holy Thursday. Lent has six Sundays. The sixth is called Passion or Palm Sunday and marks the beginning of Holy Week. The Easter Triduum begins with the evening Mass of the Lord's Supper on Holy Thursday. It commemorates the Lord's passion and death on Good Friday, reaches its high point at the Easter Vigil and ends with evening Prayer on Easter Sunday. Then the joyful Easter Season of 50 days begins. Traditionally, the Lenten season is a time of penance throughout the Catholic Church. Lent is a season in which prayer, the reception of the sacraments, charity and almsgiving are emphasized. Fast and abstinence are to be observed on Good Friday. All the Fridays of Lent are days of abstinence from meat.

Lenten Regulations 2011

Weekdays of Lent: There is no obligation to fast. However, voluntary acts of self-denial are recommended.

Good Friday: These are Fast and Abstinence from meat. There is a limit of one full meal for all between the ages of 18 and 59 inclusive.

Days of Abstinence: (All Fridays in Lent) All who have reached their 14th year are bound to abstain totally from meat.

Easter Duty Obligation: After they have received their First Holy Communion, Catholics are bound by the obligation of receiving Holy Communion at least once a year. This precept should be fulfilled during the Easter Season. Catholics are also bound to confess serious (mortal) sins at least once a year, but this is not limited to the Lenten/Easter Season.
