Milestones & Passages

In Our Prayers

Our thoughts and prayers go to Elizabeth Jaki on the loss of her mother, Elizabeth Varga, and to Robert Jaki for the loss of his grandmother.

Please pray for Vincent Lambot who is in the hospital undergoing tests. Rosemary is always at his side and she could use some prayers for strength to keep on going.

Anita Buchholz shares with us the sad news that our good friend, Steve Yehl, passed away on Saturday, April 22nd, having just celebrated his 89th birthday on April 5th. Steve was a resident of the 88th Street Kolping for the last 37 years, and a member since 1975. As most of you know, he always graciously volunteered to stuff the envelopes for all our mailings for the Bulletins and raffles, but mostly we will miss his company at dinner time. He would always "hold court" in the dining room, telling stories of the old days in Yorkville, and always brought smiles to everyone there. Despite all his past health problems, he had a wonderfully happy spirit that he shared with us all and we will miss him terribly. We are thankful that the end came swiftly after only two days in the hospital and that he did not suffer long, that was a blessing. We send our condolences to his large family of nieces of nephews and cousins. We hope they know that Father Kolping will surely be there to welcome him to his eternal reward.

Everyone could use the power of prayer now and again. If you or anyone you know is in need of prayer, please let us know and we will be happy to include them within the "in our prayers" list.

Happy Birthday to those born in May:

THANKS

Before his passing, Steve Yehl donated $50 to the House, as he had done each month for so many years. We thank him for this, and everything he has meant to K-88. He will sorely be missed.

As mentioned in last month's Bulletin, this year's Lenten Project is to support Bay Catholic Elementary School, a school that was affected by Hurricane Katrina. They had just opened for the new school year when the hurricane hit. They had 276 students at the time. When they were able to reopen in mid October, 153 students were able to return and resume class, although with difficulty. As of the beginning of March 2006 they are up to 247 students.

Thanks to all those who have contributed to the Lenten Project this month. Your continued support is appreciated:

DR.GÜNTER BOECKEN VISITS ONCE AGAIN

The former director and now volunteer for the Kolping Bildungsstätte has made a return trip to Kolping 88th Street along with approximately 25 members. His "thank-you email" to Katrina Dengler follows:

We are back home in Germany and we had a wonderful trip to New York and Washington. It was a good idea to have lunch at the kolpinghouse. Ernst had arranged everything very well. The information he gave us on the Kolping Society was very good. Would you please say him "thank you for everything". It was also good to meet Bert Brügger, he went to different tables to talk about his experiences with the Kolping Society.

Thank you very much for the coffee and the soft drinks. We had again a very good time at the Kolping House. I appreciate your help.

Best regards and "Treu Kolping" Günter

HELP WANTED

The New York City Police Department has announced its new upcoming examination will take place this June. If interested call 212-RECRUIT or apply online (nypdreruit.com).

INVESTORS PERMITTED TO AVOID PROBATE

Recent legislation permits individuals in New York to set up a securities account that simplifies the transfer of investments to their heirs upon their death. Beneficiaries are no longer required to go through the costly probate process in the courts to receive stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other investments.

The investor should request a Transfer on Death (TOD) form from their broker or financial advisor. One or more beneficiaries can be designated although the owner retains full control over the funds. Bank accounts already have the TOD provision, and now this also extends to securities.

MOUNT ANGEL, OREGON TO HAVE TALLEST GLOCKENSPIEL IN U.S.

Submitted by Martin A. Kelly

One of Oregon's largest Oktoberfest celebrations is held in Mount Angel—which may soon be home to the nation's tallest glockenspiel. The 49-foot clock tower (scheduled to be completed mid-September 2006) will be equipped with animated figures that sing and tell stories.

The glockenspiel will be situated within the Edelweiss building—affordable Senior housing that is currently under construction. New commercial buildings in Mount Angel's downtown are required to include Bavarian features—the Edelweiss being the most visible attempt to promote the Bavarian culture. The community hopes it will become a tourist attraction and draw visitors to the town.

THE TAPPAN ZEE BRIDGE FOR SALE?

Submitted by Jack McGee

It's hard to believe, but the Tappan Zee Bridge, while not as old than either the Brooklyn or George Washington Bridges, was not built to last. The Tappan Zee, crossing the Hudson near Tarrytown, needs to be given a complete overhaul. Opened in 1955 at a cost of $80 million, the Tappan Zee was built on the cheap, with a mere 50-year design life.

Seven years after requesting estimates on repairing the Bridge, Governor Pataki finally received them—156 proposals (six alternatives were culled from these proposals). The cheapest calls for Crazy Glue to hold the current bridge together at a price tag of at least $500 million. And the most expensive is to build a brand new bridge, including solid gold towers, at a cool $14.5 billion.

One "slight" problem is that no federal dollars have been set aside for a new Tappan Zee Bridge. After weighing the options, the governor has come up with an alternative of his own—sell the bridge! He calls this "privatization." It's not clear who might want to buy such a bridge, but in case no one steps forward, the planners will have to continue to weight the six alternatives and search for the money.

The Laconia Incident

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

Werner Hartenstein
(1908-1943)

The Laconia

Undoubtedly, World War II was the most barbaric struggle mankind ever unleashed upon itself. No place was this horror more evident than in submarine warfare. Tiny, cramped, underwater craft slithered through the perilous depths of the ocean to sink, by surprise, enemy shipping. The survivors, if any, were exposed to the cruelty of the sea praying for rescue.

So when a case of humanity, or chivalry, occurred in this dreadful situation, it demands our respect. On September 12, 1942, German submarine, U-156 sank the British White Star Liner, the Laconia, off the west coast of Africa.

On surfacing, the commander Captain Werner Hartenstein learned the ship only carried civilians and prisoners of war, now afloat in the lifeboats far from land. It was war, but what should Hartenstein do?

If he erred, he erred on the side of decency. Hartenstein contacted "sub-com" headquarters and received permission to tow some lifeboats toward the nearest African port. He was joined in this by two other U-boats and an Italian submarine. All these vessels displayed the Red Cross banner prominently and were not to take offensive action against relief ships responding to the "S.O.S's" that were being broadcast.

Eventually, a rescue was made, but not before a long-range American bomber spotted Hartenstein's convoy of mercy. The plane was on anti-submarine patrol, and the pilot radioed his base inquiring what action to take. The reply was a terse "Sink the sub". So ordered, the pilot made a bombing run on the helpless remnants. The bombs were near misses and Hartenstein and other submariners were able to lose their terrorized survivors and seek safety by submerging.

In German Naval Headquarters, the Allied reaction to this act of gracious charity and the near loss of the "good Samaritans" was duly weighed.

Supreme sub commander, Admiral Dönitz issued what later would be ignominiously called the Laconia Order. In effect, it reiterated the policy that had already been in effect by all navies in the war since its commencement. That submarine crews should not concern themselves with the rescue of the survivors of their sinkings.

Nevertheless, the Nuremberg War Crimes Commission in 1946 found Admiral Dönitz guilty of uncivilized warfare and sentenced him to 11 1/2 years in prison.

Actually, some American and Allied sub commanders would have much to answer for if the rule were applied to them. Dönitz died in 1980.

The survivors of the Laconia, thanks to Hartenstein and his colleagues, were rescued the next day by a free French freighter and brought to Dakar.

Captain Hartenstein and his entire crew were lost to enemy action on March 8, 1943 off the coast of Barbados.

The Widow

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

An elderly lady, every afternoon, went to the altar of her parish church to pray.

Some workmen who were repairing the interior of the church noted her piety. One of them suggested that, to have some fun with her, to call out "This is the Lord".

Atop their perch on some scaffolding, they called out this profanity, but the lady made no response.

Disappointed at what they thought was a joke, the "Spitzbuben" repeated the ploy a second and a third time.

Finally, annoyed by this intrusion on her meditation, the lady turned her head and shouted over her shoulder in their direction "Be quiet, I am talking with your mother".
