Everyone could use the power of prayer now and again. If you or anyone you know is in need of prayer, please let us know and we will be happy to include them within the "in our prayers" list. Please call Ann Horan (914-737-2026) when you know of a member who is ill, in the hospital, or has passed away. We want to be sure to remember them.

Please pray for a return to good health for Violet Kelly and her son.

A TAXI RIDE

 submitted by Martin A. Kelly

A lady entered a taxi and gave the driver an address to bring her to. After a short while, she tapped him on the shoulder to tell him he had made a wrong turn.

The driver became excited, swerved, and almost lost control of the vehicle. He explained to his passenger that this was his first day driving a taxi.

"And that is why you reacted so nervously when I tapped your shoulder?" the woman asked.

"Well, yes," he replied. "Up until yesterday, for the past 20 years, I drove a hearse."

Stories of Interest

Lager Beer Riot

submitted by Martin A. Kelly

This daguerreotype of Klinkel's Hall was taken in 1854, a lager beer hall at what is now 1623 North Wells Street. It was originally owned by H. Klinkel who came from Germany to Chicago in 1852.

A civil rights battle took place in Chicago in 1855. It did not involve voting or schooling but rather the right to sip a beer in your local pub on a Sunday. It has gone down in history as the Lager Beer Riot, also known as the German Riot.

The established community in Chicago resented the threat to their power base by the influx of German immigrants who nestled on the north side. To pull in the "welcome mat" from these German settlers, who carried on their traditions, the local legislature enacted laws requiring an increase in licensing a saloon from $50 to $300 per year and closing of bars and beer gardens on Sundays.

This was at a time when the average work week was 6 days, and the Germans and other minorities would be prevented from having a day off to relax.

Germans joined by Irish and Scandinavians opposed the law and intended to defy it. They did, and the police made many arrests in the north side. Elsewhere, it was business as usual with the aid of side doors.

A truce was declared and both sides agreed on the outcome of a court case testing the fairness of the law. The hearing was scheduled for April 21, 1855, but, before that, bar owners and 500 supporters held a parade through the center of town. A rally followed at which 1,000 protesters gathered. A force of 200 police responded and an order to disperse was made. However, tempers had elevated and a confrontation took place with shots being exchanged. The true number of casualties is unknown: more than 100 protesters killed, 20 policemen injured.

However, "secret" funerals on the north side suggest the number of fatalities among the citizens was higher.

Two protesters, both Irishmen, were convicted of staging a riot; then, the verdict was overturned.

The powers-that-be abandoned the enforcement of the law, and the Germans and others won by default.

All Souls Day in Vienna

submitted by Jack McGee

I recently learned an interesting story which is relevant to the souls in purgatory. Members of the Hapsburg family ruled much of Europe for almost 700 years. Like everyone else, they were mortal and realized that they would have to answer to God for the lives they lived.

During the reign of Emperor Matthew, his wife Empress Anna founded the Capuchin Church in Vienna. She stipulated that the Church would have a crypt that would contain the burial vaults for the royal family.

Since they were Catholic, Empress Anna wanted to make sure that the family would be prayed for in the years to come. About 150 members of the family are buried in the vaults and visitors are still going there today, in large numbers, and one can imagine that many of these visitors pray for them.

The largest burial vault belongs to Maria Theresa and her husband Emperor Francis. He was the first of the couple to die. It is said that she came down to the vaults every day to sit and pray for him. On November 29th, 1790, she died and was placed beside him in the burial vault.

As we prepare for this month of November which is dedicated to "All Souls", this story is very appropriate. These Catholics believed in purgatory and the value of praying for their departed relatives and friends.

In the spirit of the Church, let us do likewise.
